WHAT'S NEW THIS ROUND?

In the 2026 edition of the Bol d'Or, Dunlop supports six privateer teams in the Formula EWC category, including the No. 6 ERC BMW Endurance Team, which set an impressive best lap time of 1:52.173 during the test last week.

As the exclusive tire supplier to the Superstock and Production classes, Dunlop supports 37 teams across the two categories, who benefit from Dunlop's subsidised tire supply. With 13 entries, the Production class boasts its largest grid of the season at the Bol d'Or, further highlighting Dunlop's strong presence across categories.

The 89th edition of the Bol d'Or serves as the second 24-hour race of the 2026 EWC season; the event being staged at Circuit Paul Ricard for the 33rd time. The circuit's 5.67-kilometer layout includes the formidable 1.8-kilometer Mistral Straight, a key overtaking zone where riders will exceed 300 km/h for 20 seconds. This high-speed stretch makes tire choice crucial for performance, both day and night. The race, which is traditionally the season finale, can also be known for its unpredictable weather and gusty winds, adding another layer of challenge for riders.

The race starts at 15:00 CEST on Saturday, September 19th, and will run for 24 hours. With sunset at 19:47 and sunrise at 07:15, riders will endure nearly 12 hours of racing in darkness.
